Dan Weber
Founder

Dear Valued Member,

Founder, Daniel C. Weber, was an authentic patriot. As a student of America's history, Dan devoted a substantial portion of his life to correcting the systematic erosion of the values on which the country was founded. In fact, the recovery of our country's moral compass was the driving force behind his decision in 2007 to form the Association of Mature American Citizens.

A devoted advocate of free enterprise, Dan embraced the concept of hard work and earned reward at an early age, delivering newspapers at the age of 12. He launched his first business venture at age 16, achieving a level of success that helped cement his work ethic and his dedication to self-development. Immediately after his high school graduation, he elected to serve his country by enlisting in the United States Air Force. An honorable discharge and the distinctions he earned during his service further demonstrated his conviction that strong value systems are critical to society. Following his Air Force tour, Dan formed a family insurance business, achieving tremendous success through service to a broad range of clientele. Over a 30-year period, this enterprise provided indispensable guidance to thousands of people, enabling him to develop a keen sense of understanding about America's direction.

In Dan's view, America's very foundation—the Constitution—is being disregarded. Each year the power of government increases while individual freedoms are threatened. Excessive taxation, out-of-control governmental spending, and increasing interference in the lives of citizens are evidence that our country is going through a period of drastic change—change that is eradicating our traditional values. These concerns, along with a growing recognition that our country's older citizens need more effective advocacy in Washington, were driving forces in Dan's 2007 decision to launch AMAC. Average, everyday Americans need to be represented by an organization that has their best interest at heart. Dan Weber saw AMAC as a way to unite citizens to defend our American way of life. Now over two million members, AMAC has established itself under Dan Weber's guidance as just that organization...one that can help keep America great!

Thank You for Joining AMAC and God Bless America,
